THE ORIGINS OF GRAMMAR

Evidence from Early Language
Comprehension

*Kathy Hirsh-Pasek
and Roberta Michnick Golinkoff*

The authors use the results of empirical studies to advance a novel theory of language learning that emphasizes the role of multiple cues and forces in development.

THE GENERATIVE LEXICON

James Pustejovsky

The Generative Lexicon presents a novel and exciting theory of lexical semantics that addresses the problem of the "multiplicity of word meaning." The first formally elaborated theory of a generative approach to word meaning, it lays the foundation for an implemented computational treatment of word meaning that connects explicitly to a compositional semantics.

THE EVOLUTION OF COMMUNICATION

Marc D. Hauser

Argues that understanding the evolution, structure, and function of human language requires a comparative framework that integrates studies of nonhuman animal communication. This book looks at species in their natural environments as a way to begin to understand the real analysis units of communicating systems.

LANGUAGE AND SPACE

*edited by Paul Bloom,
Mary A. Peterson, Lynn Nadel,
and Merrill F. Garrett*

"The authors contributing to this volume are an outstanding set of psychologists, neuroscientists, and linguists who have in common an interest in one or another aspect of the relation between language and space. The chapters themselves live up to the promise of such an illustrious author list."
— Martha Farah, University of Pennsylvania

Speech Acts and Conversational Interaction

Michael L. Geis

This study proposes a new theory of speech acts, Dynamic Speech Act Theory. It is predicated on the assumption that speech act theory, if it is to be of genuine empirical and theoretical significance, must be embedded within a general theory of conversational competence capable of accounting for how we do things with words in naturally occurring conversation, and it synthesizes traditional speech act theory, conversation analysis, and artificial intelligence research in natural language processing.

Second Position Clitic and Related Phenomena

Aaron L. Halpern and Arnold M. Zwicky, Editors

This collection focuses on a special type of pronouns and auxiliary verbs, known as clitics, which have a unique grammar. The book compares several different languages to see their similarities and differences.

Announcing a new series...

Studies in Logic, Language and Information

Robin Cooper and Maarten De Rijke, Series Editors

This is the official book series of the European Association for Logic, Language and Information (FoLLI). The scope of this series is the logical and computational foundations of natural, formal, and programming languages, as well as the different forms of human and mechanized inference and information processing.

Meaning and Partiality

Reinhard Muskens

This book develops a theory of meaning in ordinary language. The theory is strictly formalized on the basis of formal logic and the book contributes to the general discipline of Formal Semantics. Within this field it offers a synthesis between two leading paradigms.

Jürgen Handke

THE Structure OF THE Lexicon

Human versus Machine

This interdisciplinary book investigates the central component of natural language processing: the lexicon. In integrating linguistic, psycholinguistic, and computational approaches towards the lexicon, a mental model is developed which serves as the basis of an efficient lexicon implementation. This volume is meant for linguists, psychologists, and computer scientists, and all who are interested in natural language phenomena.

Jürgen Handke is Professor of English and American Studies at the Philipps-University Marburg, Germany.

Association for Computational Linguistics
1996 MEMBERSHIP, CHANGE OF ADDRESS AND EMAIL AND ORDER FORM

MEMBERSHIP

Membership in the Association for Computational Linguistics is for the calendar year, regardless of when dues are paid. Membership includes a full year of the ACL journal, Computational Linguistics, reduced registration at most ACL-sponsored conferences, and discounts on ACL-sponsored publications. Payments for membership dues, fund donations, back issues, and proceedings may be made in Europe, Japan or the USA. Follow the instructions under the PAYMENT heading carefully.

Provide all personal information, even if you have previously done so, to be sure the ACL membership database is up-to-date. Write legibly, please!

Please IMMEDIATELY notify the ACL Office of address and email changes. Journal copies returned due to bad addresses will not be remailed until a $5.00 postage/handling fee is remitted. Email (if available) is used to distribute meeting, membership, and other announcements.

MEMBERSHIP DUES FOR 1996

IMPORTANT NOTE: Renewals must be received no later than 1 April 1996 to avoid late payment fee assessment. Membership categories include Regular Members and the following: Couples with the same mailing address may be Joint Members; they will receive only one set of publications, but each will be eligible for all other member benefits. Students taking a full-time program of courses and not earning a regular income may become Student Members WITH COPY OF CURRENT STUDENT ID. Students who are not Student Members because of their income can still participate in student activities as Student-Employed. Also available are Retired and Unemployed memberships. Late payment fees do not apply to new memberships.

Guidelines for Submissions

Manuscripts for Computational Linguistics should be submitted on letter-size paper (8.5 by 11 inches, or A4), double-spaced throughout, including footnotes and references. The paper should begin with an informative abstract of approximately 150–250 words. Manuscripts must be written in English. Contact the editor regarding the possibility of electronic submission.

Submissions may be made in any of the following categories:

Papers: This category includes contributions that report significant new research results in computational linguistics or that provide critical reviews of the literature on a particular topic. The length of a paper depends on its content, but it is suggested that manuscripts be limited to forty double-spaced pages. That is the equivalent of thirty journal pages. Each paper is fully refereed, being read by at least two members of the editorial board and usually by an additional expert in the particular subject area. The submission of an article to CL for refereeing means that the author certifies the manuscript is not copyrighted; nor has it been published or submitted for publication to another refereed journal. If any version of the paper has appeared, or will appear, in a non-refereed publication, the details of such publication must be made known to the Editor at the time of submission. The final version of a paper tentatively accepted for publication must be accompanied by a Copyright Transfer Agreement signed by all of the authors or, in the case of a "work for hire," by the employer. This written transfer is necessary under the 1978 U.S. Copyright law.

Letters to the Editor: This category includes statements of opinion on issues relevant to the readership. The Editor and the editorial board will evaluate the appropriateness of these contributions for inclusion.

Five copies of papers or three copies of letters should be sent to:

Julia Hirschberg, CL Editor
AT&T Research
600 Mountain Avenue, 2C-409
Murray Hill, NJ 07974, USA
(+1 908) 582-7496; acl@research.att.com

Squibs and Discussions: This category includes short articles reporting technical results, discussions of results, algorithms, or new computational linguistic data or tools of interest to the journal readership. Submissions should generally not exceed eight double-spaced pages and should be submitted to:

Pierre Isabelle, CL Squibs and Discussions Editor
CWARC Communications Canada
1575 Chomedey Boulevard
Laval, Quebec, CANADA H7V 2X2
(+1 514) 973-5801; isabelle@citi.doc.ca

Book Section: Anyone interested in reviewing a book, or in suggesting a book for review, should contact the Book Review Editor; publishers may also submit copies of books for review directly to:

Graeme Hirst, CL Book Review Editor
University of Toronto
Department of Computer Science
Toronto, CANADA M5S 1A4
(+1 416) 978-8747; gh@cs.toronto.edu

The FINITE STRING: Send (a) summaries of research in progress — of particular interest would be perspectives on the activities at a particular institution; (b) announcements of meetings of potential interest to the membership; and (c) personal notes (e.g., honors, moving, changes in status) to The FINITE STRING Editor. Time-sensitive material should be received by the first day of the second month of each quarter to appear in the next issue. Submissions (where possible in electronic form) should be sent to:

Richard Sproat, FINITE STRING Editor
Bell Laboratories
600 Mountain Avenue, 2D-451
Murray Hill, NJ 07974, USA
(+1 908) 582-5296; rws@research.att.com

Founded in 1962, the Association for Computational Linguistics (ACL) is the primary scientific and professional society for natural language processing research and applications. A European chapter was established in 1982. Besides publishing Computational Linguistics, the ACL holds international meetings (annually in North America, biennially in Europe) where the state-of-the-art in natural language processing research and development is presented. Recently, special interest groups on the Mathematics of Language, the Lexicon, Parsing, Generation, Computational Phonology, and Multimedia Language Processing have been formed; others are likely to be added.
