

LANGUAGE REPRESENTATION

DAVID L. WALTZ, EDITOR

Coordinated Science Laboratory
University of Illinois
Urbana 61801

Papers presented in two sessions of TINLAP-2, the 1978 Meeting of the Association for Computational Linguistics, held with joint sponsorship by the Association for Computing Machinery and its Special Interest Group in Artificial Intelligence.

Copyright © 1978, 1979
Association for Computing Machinery
Association for Computational Linguistics

TABLE OF CONTENTS

TABLE OF CONTENTS		PAPER	FICHE
Session 1 Language Representation and Psychology
Testing the Psychological Reality of a Representation Model
Dedre Gentner	1	3
What Makes Something "Ad Hoc"
Roger C. Schank	8	10
The Relation of Grammar to Cognition--a Synopsis
Leonard Talmy	14	16
On Primitives Prototypes, and Other Semantic Anomalies
Terry Winograd	25	27
Taxonomic Lattice Structures for Situation Recognition
William A. Woods	33	35
Session 2 Language Representation and Reference
Description Formation and Discourse Model Synthesis
Bonnie Lynn Webber	42	44
The Processing of Referring Expressions within a Semantic Network
John R. Anderson	51	53
Reference Diaries
Herbert H. Clark and Catherine Marshall	57	59
Subsequent Reference Syntactic and Rhetorical Constraints
David D. McDonald	64	66
Some Psycholinguistic Constraints on the Construction and Interpretation of Definite Descriptions
Andrew Ortony.....	73	75
Bound Variables and Other Anaphors
Barbara H. Partee	79	81
The Use of Focus as a Tool for Disambiguation of Definite Noun Phrases
Candace L. Sidner	86	87	