Learning to use machine translation on the Translation Commons Learn portal

Jeannette Stewart

Translation Commons Las Vegas, NV 89113, USA jeannette@translationcommons.org

Abstract¹

We describe the Learn portal of Translation Commons (TC), а self-managed community of volunteer translators community aimed at sharing tools, resources and initiatives for the translation community as a whole. Members are encouraged to upload and share their free resources on the platform and to create free courses and tutorials. Specifically there are no educational material on machine translation yet and we invite experts to contribute.

1 Translation Commons

A self-managed volunteer community, Translation Commons² (TC) is a nonprofit established to share tools, resources and initiatives that unite the language community and encourage cross-functional collaboration. TC fosters collaboration, responds to the needs of the people using endangered and minority languages and is targeted to the needs of language service professionals and students by bridging the gap between academia and industry.

2 The Learn portal

Learn is the TC portal for all community learning activities. The portal includes a Learning Center with learning materials and courses, a Translation Hub compiling valuable free resources for translators, and a section hosting a revival of the eCoLo (electronic Content Localisation) translation training initiative, spearheaded by an

Mikel L. Forcada Universitat d'Alacant E-03690 St. Vicent del Raspeig, Spain mlf@ua.es

EU-funded consortium of European universities. Learn contains almost no educational material on machine translation yet; we invite experts to contribute.

2.1 The Learning Center

In this section members find, join or create courses, workshops, seminars, one-to-one training, as well as articles, resources and tutorials. The eCoLo Training kits are being updated and will be located under courses here. We encourage members to share or create tutorials or any educational material.

2.2 The Translation Hub

The Translation Hub (TH) is a compilation of valuable online and offline resources for translators, such as terminology databases, glossaries, translation tools, public and private organisations linked to the language industry, and much more. The aim is to catalogue all free resources, including opensource and free trials for cloud-based and desktop-based software. TC members can upload links of free online resources through their dashboard and these will be added to any of the categories in the TH.

2.3 eCoLo

The eCoLo platform, which has recently been restarted at TC, provides useful training materials for both students and teachers in order to help skills improve in different areas of translation: computer-assisted translation memory, software localization, machine translation. project management, and terminology. You will find multilingual material, training kits, training scenarios and full courses translation and localization on various techniques.

¹ © 2018 The authors. This article is licensed under a Creative Commons 3.0 licence, no derivative works, attribution, CC-BY-ND.

² http://translationcommons.org